Market review

Increasing sovereign risk around EU countries and a weaker-than-expected economic recovery in the US and China saw investors move to defensive assets during the June quarter. Global equities fell -4.8% over the period though were down -11.2% in local dollar terms owing to the sharp depreciation of the Australian dollar against the US dollar.

The Australian sharemarket began the second quarter with positive momentum but a weak May and June saw the index lose -11.2% over the period. At a sector level, the market had varied results. Defensive sectors were strong, while cyclical sectors such as Industrials, Banks and Consumer Discretionary sectors underperformed the index. Telecom and Consumer Staples had the best relative performance in the market.

Despite falling commodity prices, anxiety about global growth and the miners' vehement opposition to the government's proposal for a Resources Super Profits Tax weighing on the sector, Resources roughly matched the market over the period (-11.0%). Meanwhile Banks (-17.1%) were affected by a lacklustre results season and concerns about funding costs.

Most bond markets were strong in the June quarter as the European fiscal crisis undermined both risk appetite and the prospects for growth in the region. The Australian 10 year bond shed 69 basis points and its US equivalent 90 bps. Meanwhile the RBA hiked rates in April and May but left rates on hold in June leaving the base rate at 4.5%.

Fund performance

Further falls in the local and global sharemarkets outweighed positive performance in fixed interest assets and saw the portfolio register a negative return for the June quarter. The portfolio also slightly underperformed the benchmark over the period.

The largest positive contributors to active performance were international equities, global property and asset allocation, offset by negative active returns in Australian equities, the credit component of Australian fixed interest and commodities within alternative investments.

Outlook

The risks to equity market performance appear skewed to the downside in the near term with the forward-looking economic data pointing to slowing growth in the second half of 2010. Hence, the volatility of the past quarter is expected to persist as the global economic cycle becomes increasingly unsynchronised across regions. Fiscal austerity measures in Europe are likely to be a significant drag on growth, while the US recovery appears to be slowing and China continues to engineer a slowdown in its overheating property market. Australia has enjoyed strong employment growth recently, but the domestic economic outlook is less positive in light of a slowing property market and the lowest year-on-year retail sales growth since 2001.

It is therefore hard to call a bottom in equities at this stage, especially as the technical indicators have turned rather negative. With this is likely to come further weakness in the Australian dollar.
